—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 16.—Every American and every citizen are encouraged by proofs of the United States.

Horace Bell, editing The Los Angeles Times, wrote about the early history in his "Reminisces of a Ranger," and thus describes "Bella Union," principal Los Angeles hotel at the time of the Civil Bella Union was a one-story adobe, with a corral in the rear. The Bella Union corral, extending to Los Angeles street, was a large, open, rectangular enclosure, six by nine feet in size, six or seven feet high. Guests slept on the floor in that institution, and the best hotel south of San Diego. If a very aristocratic guest along, he was permitted to sleep in a billiard table.

WRENS of big hotels now dot Los Angeles, from the Ambassador, situated on its own park, to the Biltmore in the heart of the city. The Biltmore is a building in addition to cost more than $1,000,000 and include the biggest hangar hall in the world.

Los Angeles has changed since Don Juan ruled this territory, and with a mustang in a nine-mile race, a thoroughbred race, brought all the way from the west to clean the old don out of his legs and a couple of thousand of cattle.

STERN bankers, who have asked his writer about California's "Banking," with its stock selling for less than a billion dollars, and 105 million in one state, will be interested in an explanation of the A. P. Giannini, supplied by George Young, president of the Los Angeles Examiner, at the 4 o'clock bankers' luncheon at the day. When Giannini's close in the afternoon every man he bank goes out and spends the of the evening developing new business for the bank. And they are in the morning doing the same thing he is doing.

EMPLOYEES, he it remembered, get 45 per cent of Bank of Italy profits. They are for their own pockets.

THIS state, of which the native Indians were the laziest humans on earth, now has, in spite of its mild climate, a most marvellously energetic race.

That applies to Los Angeles and the of California, applies to this whole country. Everybody is in a hurry, and actually working, not going through the motions.

H. BYRNES, president of the San Francisco union stockyards, says the world to know, as it should, he paid $5 a pound, live weight, the grand champion Southdown turkey.

Ford's man telephones an invitation to ride in the new Ford car, and its gigantic new plant near Los Angeles.

Vanderenter of the Oakland and Charles P. Howard of the Chamber of Commerce send you must be here Jan. 5 and see future greatest city in California.

A. Grady says the Kiwanis Club, south of the city, is going there.

F. HUMBURG wants you in a Francisco to inspect that city's 150-acre playground, on the coast, for eastern tourists.

Tan Akers, publisher of the Arizona Gazette, says you have not to visit man's salt river valley, to see what been done in cotton, citrus, dairy, and winter vegetables. Chambers of commerce of every county in the state join in that hospitable invitation.

MISS GRACE M. SPARKES, secretary of the Yavapai County Chamber of Commerce, says that she is in Arizona that you must see the Arizona, president of the Arizona, Kiwanis Club, and the Yavapai Club of Prescott, wants you to visit "mile high city, pine clad hills, Hualapai hotel."

J. J. Seaman, publisher of the Arizona, says that you must see the Arizona, president of the Arizona, Kiwanis Club, and the Yavapai Club of Prescott, wants you to visit "mile high city, pine clad hills, Hualapai hotel."

B. R. PRICHARD ELECTED HEAD OF RED CROSS

Loan Secretary To Direct Activities of Chapter During Coming Year

SERVICE OUTLINED
Executive Committee Probably Will Be Named During Next Week

B. R. Prichard, secretary of the Marion Building, Savings & Loan Co., was elected chairman of Marion County Chapter of the Red Cross at its annual meeting last night. He will be the directing head of the chapter during the year ending Nov. 30, 1928.

Miss Alice Hane was elected vice chairman and arrangements were made for having Mr. Prichard and members of his executive committee appoint other officers, which will include secretary and treasurer. The executive committee will probably be named within the next week.

Reports filed by officers and heads of different departments by the local Red Cross showed that although not liberally supplied with funds during the last year, the organization carried on an exceptionally effective program of community service.

Financial Statement
These reports included a detailed financial statement submitted by George B. Knapp, last year's vice chairman. It showed that at the close of the fiscal year, Nov. 30, the chapter had a cash balance of $5,001.12 with all outstanding bills paid. This indicated a most satisfactory state of the finances, more than at the close of the preceding year, when the net balance was $4,044.88.

Expenditures for local relief and charity purposes amounted to $905.85, including at 4 o'clock bankers' luncheon for the day. When Giannini's close in the afternoon every man he bank goes out and spends the of the evening developing new business for the bank. And they are in the morning doing the same thing he is doing.

The program for next year's work will be outlined by the new chairman and vice chairman and members of the executive committee at a meeting to be held soon.

Well Attended
Last night's meeting, held at the Public Library, was well attended. It was in charge of J. F. Prendergast, who served as chairman during the greater part of last year. He took the office at the urgent request of local business men and others interested in Red Cross work at a time when the chapter was virtually out of funds and faced prospects of being forced to suspend operations. As the result of his agreement to take charge of affairs, local business men subscribed $2,868.07 to turn to Page 14

Announcement of the awards, which went to 13 girls and six boys, came today from K. H. Marshall, principal of the school. Harding High's quota in the honor society for this year is 21 and the additional members will be named at the close of the second semester.

Those named in the list announced today are: Alice Artopoulos, Hazel Barker, Helen Cabart, Dorothea Crenshaw, Clio Crookbaum, Naomi Doyle, Katherine Eymon, Elma Sage, Margaret Stewarts, Jane Shelton, Genevieve Schmitt, Mary Titworth, Dorothy Zieg, Frank Heiges, Walter Moore, William Star, Harold Waddell, Robert Lindsey and Merrett Marshall.

There are 212 members of the Senior class and 15 per cent of this number constitute Harding High school's quota. Last year's quota was 27.

The members are chosen on the basis of their records of scholarship, leadership, character and service.

The selections announced today were made by a committee representing the graduating class of 1925 in co-operation with Mr. Marshall. Names of the members of the committee are not made public.

LINDBERGH IS CALLES' GUEST

Dines with Obregon; 100,000 School Children To Honor Him

Mexico City, Dec. 16.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh breakfasted with General Obregon today and then accompanied President Calles on a visit to his dairy farm.

The secretary of public instruction today arranged a student fete to be held in the National Stadium tomorrow in honor of the flier. More than 100,000 school children are expected to take part in the fete.

Colonel Lindbergh has been invited to be a co-guest with Will Rogers, the American humorist, on Sunday, after a parade of 200,000 labor union men has been carried out in honor of the aviator.

At a typical Aztec flower festival at Xochimilco on the historic Xico Canal, Colonel Lindbergh will be given the freedom of that ancient town on Monday.

The departure of Lindbergh on his central American flight still is indefinite and awaits the arrival of eight tanks of special fuel which is now en route here. "The Spirit of St. Louis" is being kept under a heavy guard at Valbuena Airfield.

AGAIN STOPS HOUSE FROM HOLDING MEET

Oklahoma Governor Orders Guards To Stand at Senate Door

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 16.—Gov. Henry S. Johnston ordered the Oklahoma National Guard unit to return to the Senate chamber of the state capital today and thus become technically in contempt of the Senate court for his impeachment.

The governor's command followed a formal order of the Senate court permitting house members to use the Senate lounge and committee rooms for their meetings.

The guards were instructed to "pass" members of the Senate through its barriers, but to disperse all members of the House from attempted meetings.

CARRY 50 PATIENTS TO SAFETY IN FIRE

Fireman Injured After "Rescuing" Wax Dummy at Baltimore

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 16.—Fifty patients, including nine newborn infants and their mothers, were carried to safety by nurses and doctors at Baltimore Emergency Hospital early today as flames wrecked the building, doing $40,000 damage. Three firemen were injured.

The blaze, originating in an attic, swept rapidly through the structure, and had enveloped the hospital when Miss Katherine Delaney, nurse, discovered the fire, and spread the alarm. Miss Delaney carried many patients to safety.

Walter Scheger, a fireman, was seriously injured when he braved the flames to rescue what he supposed was an unconscious man lying in a hallway. The "rescued" man turned out to be a wax dummy, used in the anatomical classes.

MERCEDES FAILS

Miss Glantz started at 2:30 a. m. to swim the 21-mile stretch between the African and European coasts, but after eight hours she had to give up and was taken on board a tug to return to Tangier.

POLLAK STEEL PLANT HERE TO BE ENLARGED

Expansion of Local Branch Indicated in Statement from Cincinnati Office

FACTORY CITED AS MODEL
Nothing Too Good in Line of Improvements for Industry, Head Says

Prospects of the local plant of the Pollak Steel Corporation being enlarged in order to make increased production are indicated in a statement issued today from the main office of the company in Cincinnati.

The statement, which came from Maurice E. Pollak, chairman of the board of directors, outlined primarily to improvements made recently in which the local plant was equipped completely with electric motive power. An account of the electrification project was published in The Star at the time of its completion.

Expansion Planned
Although no definite plans are now under way for increasing production facilities at the plant here, Mr. Pollak indicated that such enlargement is contemplated for the future.

"Nothing is too good for the Marion plant in the way of improvements or improved machinery," he said. "Increased production will be made the program right along."

The plant will be enlarged and production facilities augmented as the company's increasing business warrants, he stated.

300 Men at Work
Elimination of old steam power and installation of improved electrical equipment for making steel products of several types has made the local plant the most modern of its kind not only in Ohio but in the middle-western states' district. Mr. Pollak stated.

The local plant is now employing approximately 300 men working in two 10-hour shifts.

ATTACK THREATENS TO SPLIT FARM BLOC

New Caraway Plan Would Virtually Repeal Agricultural Tariff

Washington, Dec. 16.—A southern attack on the qualification fee, "backbone" of the McNary-Haugen Bill, today threatened to split the ranks of the farm bloc in the Senate.

With western Republicans supporting the qualification fee, which President Coolidge vetoed a year ago, southern Democrats were reported rallying to the new Caraway plan, which would virtually repeal the tariff so far as American agriculture is concerned. The Caraway plan was certain to inject a new war into the agricultural relief fight with the outcome hazed with doubt.

The new relief program, sponsored by Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, would establish the same federal agricultural relief corporation proposed in the McNary-Haugen Bill. Every feature, in fact, includes every feature of the McNary-Haugen plan except the qualification fee. In its stead, Caraway would take care of the surplus crop by allowing farm organizations to bring into the United States duty free a quantity of foreign products equal in value to quantity of surplus crops exported. He declared it spelt out would enhance the value of surplus crop exports while giving the farmer freedom from the tariff on articles which he must purchase.

LINDY ACCEPTS BID

Flier To Visit Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador and Panama

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has accepted invitations from Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador and Panama to visit their countries by air before returning to the United States from Mexico, Ambassador Morrow informed the State Department today.

The ambassador's message gave no details. President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg were thanked by Colonel Lindbergh for the congratulations they sent him upon the success of his Washington-Mexico City non-stop flight. The message to the president said:

"I appreciate sincerely your telegram of congratulations and desire to express to you my deep appreciation of your interest in my flight and of your cordial support and good wishes."

COMMONS REJECTS BOOK, FEARS CHAOS FOR CHURCH

London, Dec. 16.—"Chaos and disaster for the Church of England" was predicted today by leading laymen and members of the clergy as a result of the rejection of the new prayerbook by the House of Commons last night.

Steps were immediately taken to alleviate the situation arising from the Commons' decision. The archbishop of Canterbury, visibly affected by the rejection, was expected to issue a statement today indicating future plans.

IRONY: LAUGH, DIE!

Condemned Men Forced To Listen to Comedy Before Going to Chair

OSKINSING, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Peter Seiler, 20, and George Ricci, 31, were executed in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison early today following presentation of the prison musical comedy, "The Sweet Little Devil." For three hours before they were electrocuted, the condemned men were forced to listen to the laughter of 600 other prisoners.

Seiler protested his innocence to the end. He was convicted of participation in a holdup in New York City in which Patrolman James Masterson was shot and fatally wounded. Ricci shot and killed Frank Scavullo, a real estate man by whom he had been employed as an apartment house superintendent. Scavullo had discharged Ricci.

POSTPONEMENT ARRANGED IN RAICHLEY CASE

Proximity of Christmas Prompts Attorneys To Effect Agreement

Trial of the suit brought to set aside the will of Burr Raichley, former Marion resident, which was scheduled to start Monday, Dec. 19, in the Wyandot County court, has been postponed. It was announced today. Although no definite date has been set, it was indicated by attorneys in the case that the hearing will take place some time in January.

Jan. 16, it was stated, is being considered a possible date for the assignment.

Postponement was decided upon after attorneys on both sides agreed that Dec. 19 was too near Christmas for the convenience of the numerous witnesses and others, who are to participate in the proceedings. It would be especially inconvenient, the attorneys agreed, for lawyers living in Kansas City, who are included in the list of counsel for the plaintiffs.

Recess Certain
It is regarded as certain that the trial will last a week and possibly longer, thus creating the probability that a recess at Christmas would be necessary should the proceeding start on Dec. 19.

The trial of the case will take place in the Wyandot County court as the result of a change of venue order issued by Judge Schofield of the Marion County common pleas court. The change of venue was granted on application of the plaintiffs, who expressed the belief that a fair and impartial trial might not be obtained here because of so many local residents being interested in the outcome.

The title of the suit is Walter L. Freeze and others, relatives of Raichley against executors of the will and beneficiaries named in the will.

The bulk of the estate, estimated at approximately $200,000, was bequeathed to the Marion Masonic Temple Co.

NAVY SUPPRESSING AIR SUCCESS, CLAIM

Oklahoma Congressman To Demand Full Explanation, He Promises

Washington, Dec. 16.—Declaring that the Navy Department has suppressed reports of remarkable demonstration of the superiority of airplanes over battleships, Rep. James V. McClure, Democrat of Oklahoma, said today that he would demand a full explanation when the House Naval Affairs Committee considers the new $725,000,000 building program of the navy department.

"The navy is controlled by admirals who want the public to believe that the battleship is still a great fighting craft," said McClure.

"A few months ago the sixth bombing squadron at Guantanamo Bay made a perfect score dropping bombs on a target smaller than a cruiser. One of the bombs failed to explode, but every bomb hit the mark."

"During the week of Oct. 17, I am informed, another remarkable demonstration was held off Hampton Roads, Virginia. Six planes of the fifth squadron were designated to conduct this test. This test also was nearly 100 per cent perfect."

"CZAR" NEEDED!

Secretary Davis Opps Failure of Coal Settlement Parley

Washington, Dec. 16.—Although the coal conference called by Secretary of Labor Davis to evolve a peace plan for bituminous fields in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia failed to reach an agreement, further attempts may be made to settle the controversy, Davis indicated today.

The conference was in session three days but it broke up because of the absence of the major operators in the territory involved.

"If ever an industry needed a 'czar,' coal is that industry," Davis declared. "This conference just closed developed a suggestion that leaders in coal submit the industry to control by an umpire or overlord. If they did so, they could bring about order and stabilization at a stroke."

LOGAN COUNSEL WILL EXAMINE WEISS JAN. 25

Hearing on Gas Rate Protests Recused by Utilities Commission

TO STUDY TESTIMONY
Direct Examination of Cincinnati Expert Completed by Cities' Lawyers

Counsel for the Logan Gas Co. today was preparing to cross-examine W. H. Weiss, Cincinnati rate expert, when the state utilities commission recused his hearing at Columbus, on Jan. 25, next relative to protests against the company's natural gas service. The protests have been filed by Marion and approximately 30 other Ohio cities.

When the commission recessed its hearing late Thursday, Weiss had completed his testimony on behalf of the protesters. Weiss, employed by the state and the protesting municipalities, recently inspected the properties of the Logan Gas Co. and placed a valuation for rate-making purposes, upon them of approximately $21,800,000. His testimony dealt with his appraisal of those properties. The company's valuations totaled about $50,000,000.

Recess for Defense
The recess was ordered by the commission for the purpose of giving counsel for the company sufficient time in which to prepare to their cross-examination of Weiss, and also to afford attorneys for the protesters opportunity to study the testimony just given by witnesses for the company. These witnesses, it was indicated, will be the persons examined by counsel for the protesters when the company's attorneys finish their cross-examination of Weiss.

The commission stated it would hold Jan. 26 and 27 available for continuation of the hearing which opens on Jan. 25. Counsel for the protesters today voiced belief that, in all probability, all testimony can be submitted in six more hearing days.

The next step would be for the commission to assign its appraisal engineers to the work of checking the valuations submitted separately by the company and by the protesters and then report their recommendations to the commission. These recommendations would constitute the basis for the determination by the commission of its own valuations as the basis for rates.

ASYLUM FIRE TOLL HAS REACHED 37

May Mount to 43, However, Officials at Quebec Believe

Quebec, Dec. 16.—Official searches for the bodies of children in the ruins of the St. Charles convent, which was destroyed by fire here early yesterday, announced today that 37 bodies have been recovered. Thirty-six of these were little children and one an adult, Anna Gaudreault, 17, heroine of the obstetrical case, who made three trips alone into the burning building rescuing parties of eight and 10 children in each expedition, but met death herself on the fourth attempt.

According to police who spent the greater part of the night in combing the city for missing children who had been given shelter in strange homes, the terrible strain of their harrowing experience so overpowered the youthful survivors that they were unable to give an account of themselves or their names. Less than 10 of the inmates of the building are now accounted for.

The death toll total, police believe, will stand at 42 or 43 when all details of the search have been cleared.

ARRAIGN BANKER FOR ALLEGED FALSIFYING

Cleveland, Dec. 16.—The second bank teller to be arraigned here within a month, for alleged embezzlement, Harry E. Linder of Elgin, today was to be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner M. J. Monahan on charges of falsification of bank statements, and embezzlement of $10,000 from the Guardian Trust Co. here, where he was employed in the loan department.

Linder's arrest followed a report to the office of U. S. District Attorney A. E. Bernstein that a checkbook of Linder's books revealed a shortage.

JURY MAY GET CASE TONIGHT

State Places Additional Witness on Stand in Zillick Trial

(Special to The Star)
Bucyrus, Dec. 16.—The fate of Harry Zillick, 32, Toledo, charged with participating in the robbery of the Galion Commercial Savings Bank June 25, when $175,000 in cash and bonds was taken, is expected to be in the hands of five women and seven men composing the jury hearing the trial here tonight.

But one more witness was scheduled to appear at the resumption of the trial after the lunch hour. This witness, a former clerk of courts in Wyandot County, is to appear for the state to testify to an alleged indictment of Zillick on charges of burglary in connection with a clothing store robbery at Carey several years ago.

As soon as this witness has testified, it is expected the arguments will get under way. Belief was expressed by court officials that the case will go to the jury shortly before 4 o'clock.

Zillick on Stand
Zillick took the stand in his own defense at this morning's session. He testified that he had deposited $45 to the account of Florence Carter, now Mrs. Florence Scriver, his landlady. He asserted that the writing on his deposit slip was his. To clinch his statement he took a pen and duplicated the writing on the slip. The two examples of handwriting were viewed by counsel but no comment was made.

The state scored heavily when it opened its cross-examination after the defense counsel had let down the bars as to Zillick's past.

Cross-examination tended to show that Zillick has a police record. Four—

MAY HOLD SCHNEIDER CUP RACES EVERY TWO YEARS

London, Dec. 16.—Great Britain and Italy will support a proposal that the Schneider Cup seaplane races be held every two years instead of annually, it was announced today. It is understood that the American, French and German governments concur in the change. The last race, held in Italy in September, was won by England. Later it was reported that British Air Corps might not be allowed to participate in future contests owing to the government's desire to keep the maximum speed of British seaplanes a secret.

MURDER TRIAL AT CINCINNATI NEARING CLOSE

Final Arguments Will Be Given Saturday; Limited to Four Hours

INSANITY CLAIM RIDDLED
Only Two Paragraphs of Alienists' Report Will Be Read to Jury

Cincinnati, Dec. 16.—Judge Chester R. Shook predicted today that the murder case of George Remus would go to the jury next Monday.

Only two paragraphs of the 4,000 word report of the three court alienists, who found that Remus was sane at the time he shot and killed his wife, Inogene, last October, will be read to the jury, Judge Chester R. Shook ruled today.

These paragraphs will inform the jury the alienists made a very exhaustive study of Remus, as well as his family, and that they "unanimously found him sane at the time of the murder."

Remus' defense has been "insanity," his insanity was temporary insanity when he killed his wife. He expressed regret that the report of the alienists was not allowed to go to the jury in full.

To Take Stand
The alienists themselves were to take the stand today after their report is read to the jury. They are Dr. David I. Wolfstein, Dr. E. A. Haber and Dr. Charles B. Kelly.

Closing Arguments
Tomorrow the lawyers for both sides will make their closing arguments and early Monday morning the judge expects to instruct the jury.

The court has informed the attorneys that closing arguments must be limited to four hours for each side.

The alienists' report is based on nearly six weeks of observation. They have interviewed Remus many times in jail and have watched him in every embrace a history of the Remus family, finding no abnormal symptoms among them. Remus himself was found to be quite normal, mentally and physically.

Remus Claim Riddled
Remus' claim of temporary insanity was riddled by the report. The alienists found that all three elements of an "acute transitory mania" or "transitory mental insanity," as Remus terms it, are lacking. These are, namely: excitement, loss of consciousness or memory, and subsequent deep sleep. The typical Remus rages do not conform, the alienists said, to any known classification of insanity, nor to the medical term "mania." Neither does his indicated state of mind conform to the condition known as "fureur."

The alienists said Remus a few compliments, finding him to be an optimist, with a sense of humor, quick tempered, conscientious, and affectionate, with a sense of responsibility, and a fair self-education.

ON THE Streets of Marion WITH THE STAR STAFF

WHEN the first ice skating season attracted throngs of boys and girls to McKinley Park last week, it was interesting to note that two or three persons of more mature years joined in the sport occasionally during the few days that the frozen surface was sufficiently substantial to guarantee safety.

There was one, at least, of the skaters who was hovering on middle age and it was apparent that his enjoyment was in every way as keen as that of the youngsters who circled about him.

Here in Marion, where ice skating, one of the finer and most exhilarating of all outdoor sports, is limited chiefly because of there being such scant water, it is a rare sight to see persons beyond the years of youth indulging in the pastime. The sight of an older person gliding over the ice consequently creates considerable amusement for persons who chance to appear at the rink.

There is one man, probably 45 years old, who lives near McKinley Park and who takes a schill with the youthful skaters frequently during the winter season.

Why not? he asks. "It is the greatest sort of exercise and if a fellow had the chance to skate for a few hours every day throughout the winter he would probably have several years added to his life. He points out that in the New England states, Canada and other localities where rivers and lakes are frozen over several months each year, no one thinks of quitting the sport of skating because of a passing year. In these places, men with faces wrinkled and hair and beards white from age mingle freely with their grandchildren in enjoying thrills of the great winter pastime.

ELECTRIC light bulbs in signs on W. Center are serving a double purpose.

During the severe weather of last week hundreds of sparrows which roost on the ledges of business blocks on Center between Main and Oak sts. warmed themselves by perching among the light bulbs of signs along the thoroughfare.

The birds appeared to work the heated shelter in shifts. After warming themselves in the glow of the lights a flock would return to the ledge of an adjacent building and another group would take to the shelter.

During the day time when the lights were not turned on the large electric signs were not so popular. Many sparrows visited the signs but remained only long enough to discover that there was no heat.

25,000 AUTOS CAUSE OF TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Marion, Dec. 16—There are now over 25,000 motor vehicles in the Phillips township, states the latest report of the director of public works. This is 1,000 more than last year.

Manila's streets are becoming so congested that a most intricate system of traffic control is necessary. Many of the streets are narrow, and most of the leading ones converge into small places, where every few minutes the traffic becomes snarled up.

The greatest difficulty is in the varying speed of the several methods of locomotion. Fast and slowest comes the carabao or water buffalo, who plods along at from two to three miles an hour. Then come the carromatas, or pony-driven carts, two wheeled and able to carry two persons besides the driver. The carromatas are exclusively hire vehicles, costing 30 cents gold money an hour.

The automobile must make its way the best it can, weaving around the slower bull carts and carromatas. There is open warfare between the horse-driven vehicles and the automobiles, each driver looking on the other methods of locomotion with disdain.

ceed J. F. Stengel.

Donald as district trustee, also were present. The new board of directors consists of T. J. McFarland, John

CRAWFORD COUNTY WARDEN COMES HERE

F. E. Zerbe Confers with Dale Rhoads Relative to Duties of Office

F. E. Zerbe, recently appointed dog warden of Crawford County, was here yesterday for a conference with Dale Rhoads, who holds the same office in Marion County. Zerbe's visit was for the purpose of obtaining information from Rhoads regarding his methods of enforcing the dog license law.

Rhoads has been serving as warden in Marion County since the new law went into effect on Aug. 10. The Crawford County commissioners delayed appointment of the warden there and Zerbe will not begin his duties until
Jan. 1.

Zerbe will be paid $100 a month and the county will pay all of his expenses, he stated. Rhoads has been working for a salary of $100 but is required to pay his own expenses, including the operation of a Ford car which he uses in covering the county. The board of commissioners now has under consideration his application for increased compensation for next year's services.

ed Wednesday night in an automobile

Daily Proverb—"Always rise from the table with an appetite and you will never sit down without one."

A French scientist says that women who wear short skirts live longer. You certainly have to hand it to a lot of 'em for being fond of life.

In a word, China is saying to the Russian reds: "If you hang about here any longer we'll show you something a blamed sight redder."

Los Angeles might have hesitated a bit before deporting Barface Al Capone. That's hardly a courteous way to treat one of the most distinguished citizens of Chicago.

Former Senator Butler, of Massachusetts, says he will not be a candidate for the senatorial nomination in 1928. No matter what anybody may say, luck isn't breaking wholly against the Republican party.

After all is said, it's a sweetly solemn thought that women who do not kill their husbands are not so uncommon that the newspapers feel that it's worth while to print their pictures.

Bands of rowdies from the universities of Oxford and Cambridge broke up a stage performance in the London Hippodrome. It's simply marvelous how steady is the forward stride of the great cause of education in this day and age!

A New York wire says that 2,000,000 of the 3,000,000 women in America who are working outside their own homes are married. It hardly looks like a square deal to the girls to have married women hog the good things of life like that.

Masillon, Warren, Dover, Uhrichville and New Philadelphia are suffering from floods, people being removed from the lower sections of some of them in boats. What each and every one of these towns needs is an $800,000 storm water bond issue.

Great Britain paid $2,875,000 to Uncle Sam on her war debt, Thursday, $35,000,000 of it representing principal, and, if there is anything in precedent, we are now due to hear a lot more utterances about the "world's greatest shylock."

"Homemade Radio Aerial Electrocutates a Family of Three," reads a headline over a Buffalo story telling how a husband, a wife and a son were killed when the aerial they were erecting came into contact with a high-tension wire. We assume that, had the aerial been of the store variety or a wire clothesline, the tragedy would not have resulted.

Rebecca, the pet raccoon of the White House, is a real asset to the Washington papers. It's the exceptional dull day when she isn't good for at least half a column and, the emergency justified, can be played up occasionally for even more.

Philadelphia meat retailers say they haven't joined Boston in a boycott on excessive beef prices, but they admit that they are advising patrons to buy other meats and poultry so long as they are compelled to pay twenty-seven cents a pound for carcass beef which they bought for seventeen cents a year ago. We hope that this will not be the time chosen to inaugurate a campaign for the relief of the beef raiser.

And Now the Lexington.

Something over a week ago we spoke in some detail in these columns of the taking-over by the government of the plane carrier, Saratoga, at that time the largest and swiftest capital warship in any navy.

Another capital ship, said to be almost a battle fleet in itself, was turned over by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation to Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commandant of the Charlestown navy yard, Wednesday of this week.

The new marine monster added to our battle fleet is the mighty Lexington, called a companion ship to the Saratoga, but for some reason not made known as yet to the general public, pronounced by naval officials even more powerful than her companion ship.

The dimensions of the Lexington are no more impressive than those of the Saratoga. She has a length of 874 feet, is capable of carrying 106 planes, is of 23,000 tons register and has a speed of thirty-nine miles an hour. What makes her a more powerful ship than the Saratoga is not stated, yet she is pronounced the most powerful naval vessel in the world.

Whether this contention of naval officialdom is right or wrong, there can be no error in the statement that in these two vessels the United States has the largest, swiftest, most powerful and up-to-date two plane carriers afloat, and, as there is rather general agreement that planes will figure largely in naval combats of the future, the people of this country may figure that there is one significant respect, at least, in which our navy does not lag behind those of other great naval powers: one, in fact, in which our navy stands preeminent.

The Philippine Appointment.

The selection of former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson as governor general of the Philippines is generally accepted, regardless of party lines, as one of most decided excellence. Going back in memory for years, we can not recall an appointment which called out more pronounced commendation than that which has attended the naming of the successor of the late Major General Leonard Wood. It has brought forth expressions of approval from leaders in both the two old parties, from army and navy circles, from business and financial interests, from editors and news writers here at home and from the islanders themselves.

Perhaps there is not in all the country another so well fitted by associations and experience for the place as Colonel Stimson. His experience as secretary in the Taft cabinet made him acquainted with colonial administration, of which he has been something of a student ever since. To this has been added his experience as lieutenant colonel of the 26th field artillery and colonel of the Thirty-First field artillery, with which command he served in France, and the added knowledge of the technical side of the war game which is his as a graduate of the Army War college. He has served as United States attorney for the Southern district of New York and as special assistant to the attorney general in Washington. He was a member of the New York state constitutional convention in 1915. His recent service in Nicaragua, which brought about the settlement of the civil war in that republic, and the knowledge he has of the Philippine situation as a result of his visit to the islands last year, forcefully commended him to the attention of the president, who naturally sought as a successor to General Wood one who saw all the important island problems as they were viewed by the late governor general. In a word, the president sought an able man, a man possessing the many qualities essential to the attainment of the best results in the islands, who would not tear down that he might build up, but would take up the work so splendidly performed over a period of years by his predecessor and carry on.

In addition to these many qualifications, Colonel Stimson possesses others of high value, at one of which we hinted in our reference to his past associations. A bristly man, a graduate of Yale and Harvard law school, Colonel Stimson has had an advantage shared by but few men. As a partner in the law firm of Root and Clark, he had the advantage to be derived from close association with the senior partner of the firm, Elihu Root, held by many to be the highest mentality and one of the ablest men a couple of centuries have produced. Such an advantage is simply inestimable.

It was hinted at the White House, before the selection of Colonel Stimson was made public, that President Coolidge's choice for the Philippine governor generalship would be one of such excellence as to merit and attract general approval. Often in the past, advance notices—sometimes even those coming from the White House—have been more alluring than the quality of the goods delivered has justified. In the present case, however, the quality of the goods has proven even superior to what the country was led by the advance notice to expect.

Time alone will tell of the success, or lack of success, of Governor General Stimson's administration in the islands, but, looked at from any viewpoint and in the light of all the facts attainable, the appointment must be accepted as one as closely approaching the ideal as is possible to human attainment.

Mayor Thompson, of Chicago, says he once was a cowboy, but plainly he was not one of the ordinary run. Had he been, he would have taken to the movies instead of going in for burlesque.

Having read his specifications of what the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate should be, we are satisfied that there is mighty little danger that Governor Vie Donahay will ever be mistaken as a booster for Governor Al Smith.

Heavy Fire Loss.

The Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric company has had its full share of trouble in the past, but nothing of the magnitude of that it suffered by the burning of its emergency plant at Stratford.

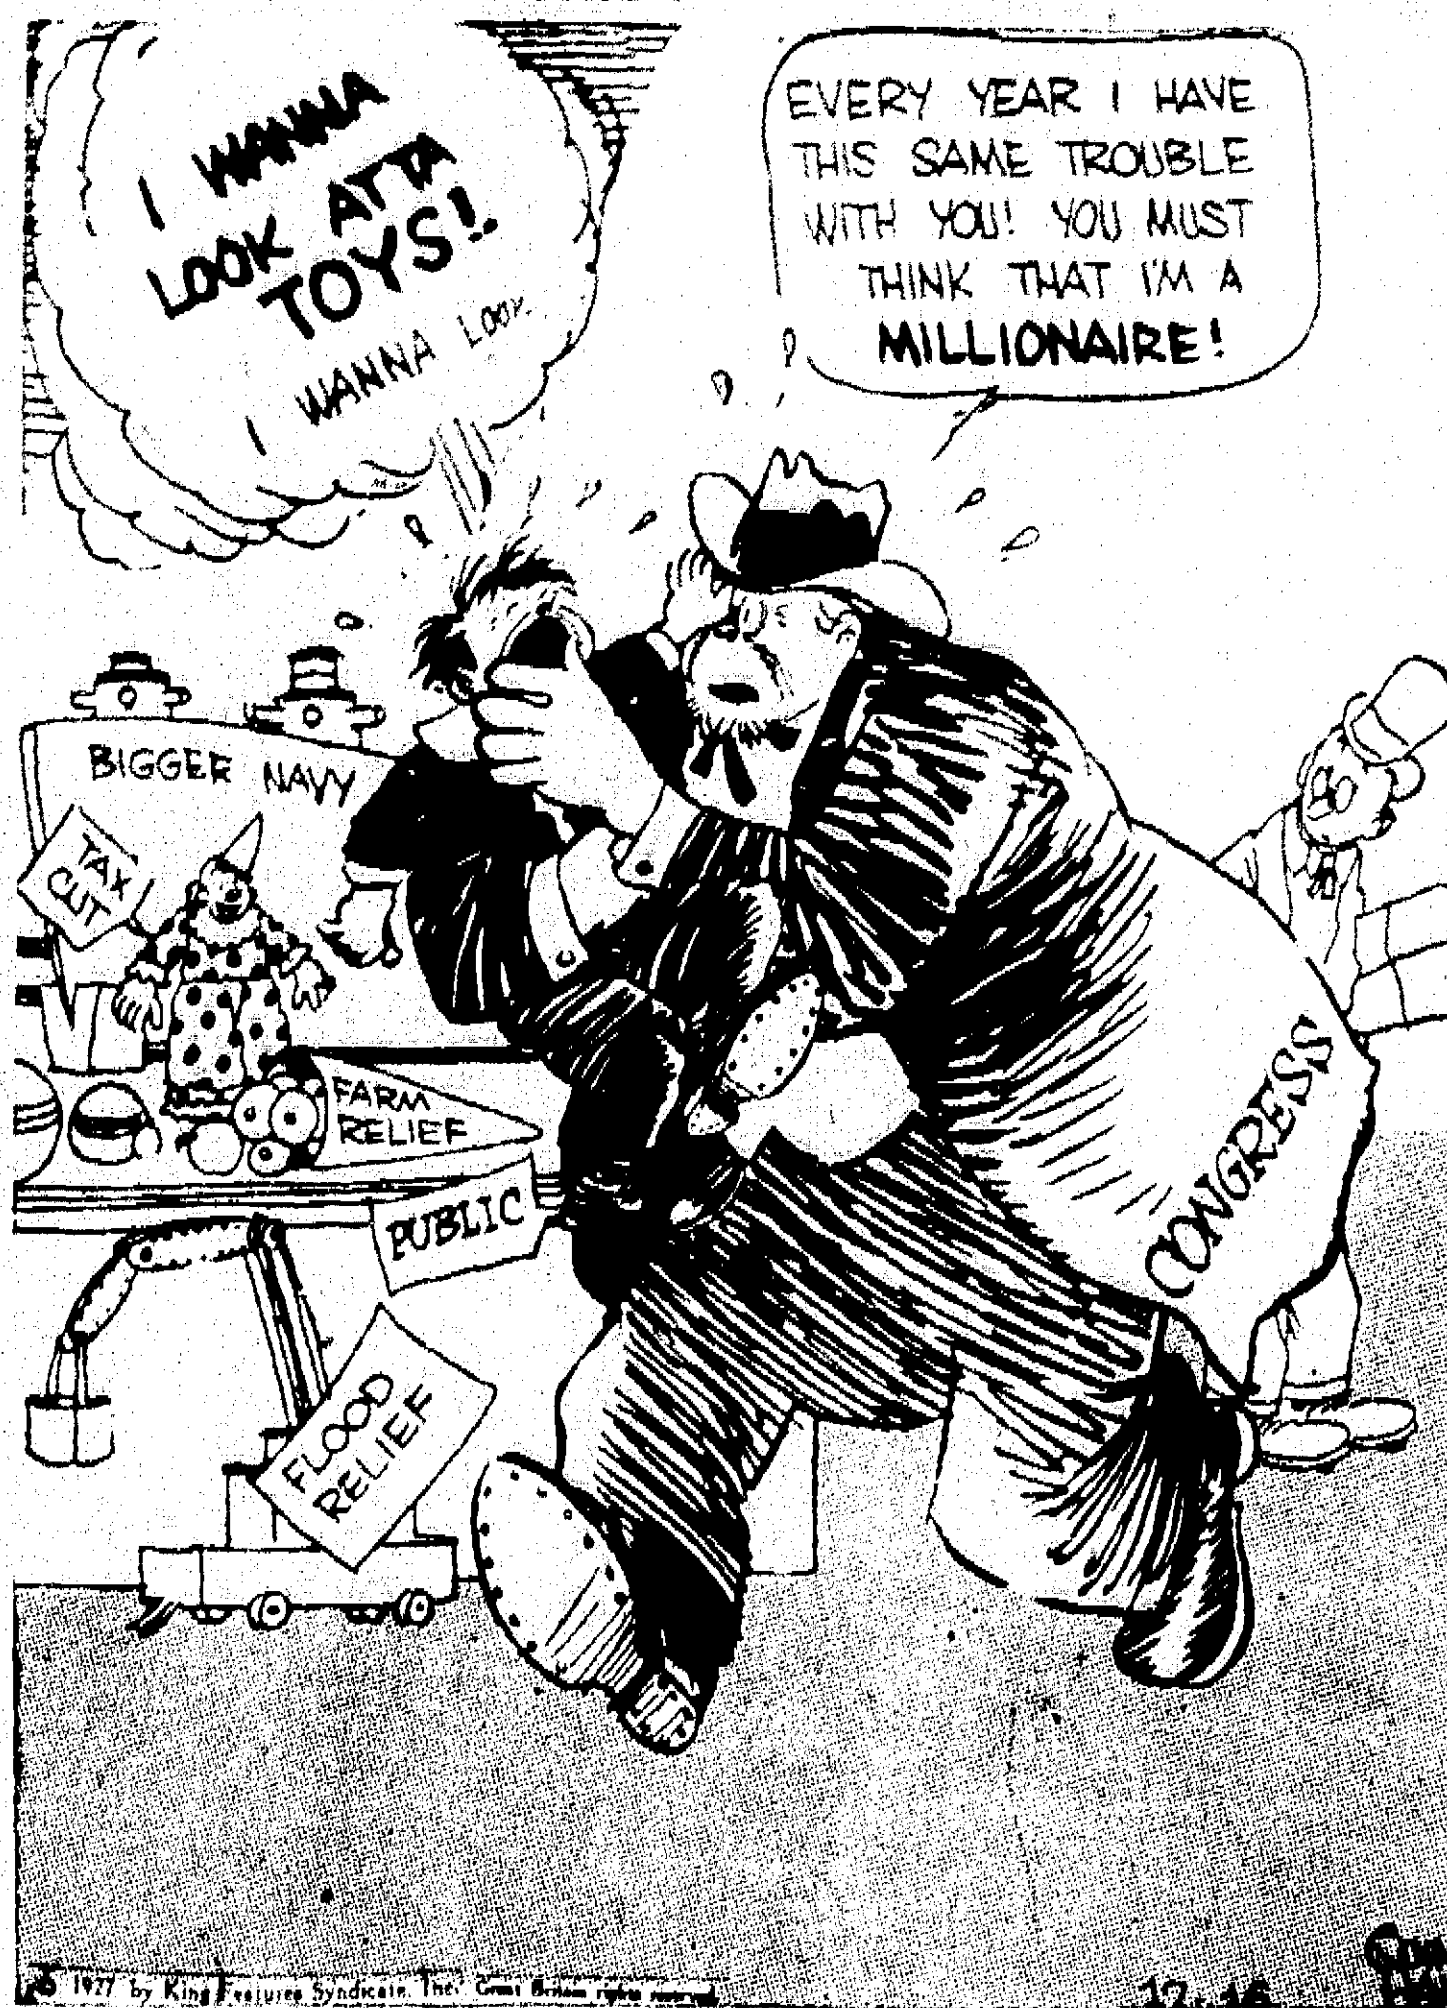

True, we are told that all the company's electrical equipment is fairly well covered by insurance, but no insurance in such a case can cover the loss sustained, estimated to approach half a million, to say nothing of the tension which is necessarily created by the absence of such a plant for emergency purposes. Let us hope that there will be no call for the use of the plant until it can be put into shape again. Better still, let us hope that there will be no call for such a plant after it has been restored. While not so large as many throughout the land, the Scioto plant is one of the most complete and best equipped, and it should meet every demand made upon it by the Iudurburn and this and the other communities it serves, especially so since it has a splendid reserve equipment.

A news item tells us that upon their arrival in Mexico City, "We" had down 34,905 miles. It would hardly be fair to say that's better than a lot of automobiles do. Up in the air there are mighty few true aristocrats to be knocked out of the way with a consequent additional strain on machines.

A Swiss expert, retained to appraise the thousands of jewels left by the sultans of Turkey, says they represented riches unaccountable. Let us hope that no hard-working spreader of joy and sunshine in paragraphs will ever horde up riches like that. It smirks too greatly of ostentation.

Westchester county, New York, proposes to expend $3,117,900 the coming year for the beautification of her park system. And yet we have among us many silly people who, unable to see anything worthy of appreciation outside the Old world, bemoan America's lack of appreciation of the beautiful.

A BAD TIME OF YEAR FOR PAPA.

Blood Tells of Habits.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are certain functions performed by the blood which are overlooked by careless persons. Indeed, the uninformed may not know why we have blood.

It is the business of this fluid to carry nourishment to every cell and fibre of the body. We take food into the mouth, chew and swallow it. The stomach and other "digestive organs" prepare it for absorption. But up to this point, it is of no more value to the body than so much food on the shelves of a grocery store.

Until the food is distributed to every part of the anatomy, it can do no good. The blood must convey the nourishing material and that is the first of its chief functions.

But there is a second important thing done by the blood. It sweeps away the impurities, the waste, and the poisons of the body. The blood flows in a cleansing stream, washing away materials which would do us harm if not promptly removed.

There is a third function which we are unlikely to recall. This consists in taking up the secretions of the ductless glands. These are needed to stimulate the vital forces, to keep the organs at work, and to regulate the machinery of the body.

Just what the secretions of the so-called ductless glands actually do for us is not clear to anybody. But all the scientists agree that in some mysterious way the products of these glands are intimately related to life and vital function. Whatever it is they do, they can not perform unless the blood stream carries them on their journey.

You can see that three important activities are carried on by the blood. Time must be given for each of them. If a boy is kept busy dilling up the wood boxes, he can not gather the eggs or milk the cow. There must be a division of time so that each task will be given its share.

If you eat too much or too often, the blood stream is choked with food substances. Instead of having leisure to carry away waste and to pick up the products of gland activity, all the energies of the blood are devoted to food distribution.

If you overeat or keep nibbling at food between meals, you give the blood no chance to perform its other functions. In consequence you grow fat, your heart does not act as it should and your brain fails to do its best.

To place undue effort upon the food carrying functions of the blood, gives it no opportunity to carry away waste and body poisons. What happens then? The skin is muddy and pimply, the kidneys are overworked, body odors are noted, the tongue is furred and the breath bad.

The moral of this statement is that food should be well selected, eaten in moderation and taken at meal time only.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

A. E. Q.—What can I do for superfluous hair on my face?

A.—Superfluous hair may be removed by the use of the electric needle. This work must be done by an expert skilled in this particular line. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

J. N. Q.—What is the cause of large blotches of blue veins showing plainly through the skin of my legs?

A.—Your trouble is probably due to varicose veins caused by increased tension in the veins. Constant external pressure, some obstruction of the deep veins, or, as in many cases, habitual over-exertion, such as long standing, will cause these veins to appear. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1927.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. TO A YOUNG FIR TREE.

Trim little tree, on your smooth hillside.
 Growing contentedly, well satisfied.
 To cradle your tapering shadow to rest
 On the long sweet slope of its tender breast.
 In darkness and quiet grow young and true.
 Choose you to go to the town with me,
 To a stifling house, on a clanging street,
 Mid tempests of noise, pulsed by driven feet;
 To stand all day, choked in dusty air,
 While children blare round you in dizzy glare.
 Your arms burdened lower, with ribboned things
 Than under the blanket a blizzard flings;
 Burned with hot stars that far brighter glow
 Than a summer night's sunset, shimmering low;
 Choose you this one sacrificial day.
 With only the laughter of children to pay;
 Or would you stand here, a spire-formed tree,
 The monarch of all the red hillside to be,
 Some shrub, furry creature a-dream at your feet,
 And fluttering wings or a wee heart-beat,
 Safe in your arms and sheltered from snow?
 Choose you to stay, little tree, or go?

Vincenzo Bellini—Composer.

BY COZETTE DOUGLASS.

Descended from a family of musicians, Vincenzo Bellini was destined from birth to perpetuate and make famous the family name. He was born in Catania, Sicily, November 3, 1801, and received his first instruction in music from his father, who was an organist.

In 1819 a nobleman, impressed by the boy's talent, arranged for his entrance into the Conservatory of San Sebastiano at Naples, where he remained until 1827. Owing to what has been called the "lovely lack of method" (prevaling), Bellini probably gained more from his private studies of the masters than he did from his instructors at the conservatory, although he studied under Furno, Tritto and Zingarelli.

In 1825 his first opera, "Adelson e Salvini," was performed by conservatory students and its success spurred him to further effort in dramatic composition. Following its production, Bellini was commissioned by the manager of the San Carlo theater, in Naples, to write an opera. This opera, "Blanca e Fernando," brought Bellini's name before the public. In 1827 he formed an alliance with Felice Romani, who wrote all the librettos for his compositions—a friendship which lasted until Romani's death.

Almost every year saw a new success produced, and the splendid rendering of the operas by the best known operatic stars of the time contributed greatly to Bellini's success. Probably the best known of Bellini's dramatic compositions are "Il Montecchi Capuletti," produced in 1830; "La Sonnambula," in 1831; "Norma"—considered his best and most popular work—1831, and "Il Puritani," 1835. The last named was written for the Italian opera in Paris.

"Il Puritani" was the composer's last success, for after its production he was commissioned to write two operas, and it was while he was preparing these operas that he was taken with the sudden illness which resulted in his death.

While Bellini's compositions are frequently monotonous in their melancholy strain, and "almost always undramatic," yet they are at the same time irresistibly sweet, a characteristic which called for Wagner the following: "I shall never forget the impression made upon me by an opera of Bellini at a period when I was completely exhausted with the everlasting abstract complication used in our orchestras, when a simple and noble melody was revealed anew to me."

Bellini died suddenly in his villa in Puteaux, near Paris, December 23, 1835. He is buried in Catania, where a monument is erected to his memory.

Editorial Comment.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft, in a speech delivered recently, packed into a single phrase his criticism of American justice as it is now directed. This phrase was: "The forgotten man," referring to "the victim of the murderer and the robber and the criminal."

Society spends no end of pains discovering means of protecting the "rights" of the criminal to a "fair trial." It actually swings the rights in his favor and against "the forgotten man"—the law-abiding member of society whose life and property will be taken by other criminals if the culprit at the bar is not sternly and justly dealt with in a way to deter those who might imitate him.

Society gives counsel for the criminal, endless resources of delay, a lopsided number of jury challenges, and absurd powers of appeal on technicalities despite the fact that substantial justice has been achieved in a conviction. It gives the public prosecutor—the attorney for the "forgotten man"—all possible handicaps.

Society spends disproportionate sums and passes innumerable laws to look after the welfare of the caught criminal, give him probation and time off and parole and opportunities for pardon without regard to the effect these leniencies may have on "the forgotten man," who must depend upon reliable justice and severe sentences for the deterrent effect of fear, which is his only protection.

Mr. Taft approved the adoption in New York of a new criminal code similar to that just passed in Michigan because it indicated that "the forgotten man is being remembered" by society. It is high time for "the forgotten man" is society itself.—Grand Rapids Press.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Everybody has heard of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Rich and powerful. It is known throughout the world. The biggest thing about it is its manpower. Under the leadership of able executives, but the thing that is not generally known is that nearly all the leading executives of this company came up from the ranks. One was a bookkeeper. Another started to work for the Standard when he was fourteen—in the factory that made handles for tin cans. Another was a bookkeeper. So many bookkeepers think they toil in vain, with nothing ahead of them. The vice president of the company began as an office boy.

The young man who gets somewhere in this world is the young man who feels, when he takes a job, that he is really going somewhere.

Macaulay, one of the most brilliant Englishmen of his century, couldn't commit the multiplication table to memory. Mathematics proved too much for him. It is said that Emerson never quite certain about his times seven. This supposed deficiency in mathematics on the part of men who are brilliant in other lines does not always really exist. Some men and women think they are unable to understand mathematics when the truth is they are badly taught. They may have the same capacity that others have, but they have approached the subject in the wrong way.

Many people have more intellectual capacity than they suspect. What they are afflicted with is not dumbness but mental indolence.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke, famous teacher, says the trouble with the present day "smart Alec" variety of writers is that they expect too much of life and give too little. He does not need to confine himself to writers. It's the trouble with most of us. We have somewhere gathered the idea that life is meant to be soft and easy. After all, life is not like being taken to the circus. We are actors in the show. We have to work at the parts.

The need of the hour is for a world thinker. Most of us are like flies that buzz around very small area—and perhaps get caught or swatted before we even get into the next room. At this state of civilization—and we have quite a considerable civilization at the moment—we need men who do not buzz about a small area but who can look all up and down the long road along which the caravan of history has passed and is passing.

We need men with perspective—world thinkers.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. C. MCINTYRE.

New York, Dec. 16—Thoughts while strolling: Those men who stand in Fifth avenue doorways checking off buses. Elizabeth Hines. Flappers talking the Mona and Mack lingo. What's become of ginger? A drug-store with a balcony restaurant. Masseurs parlor: "Try our dry soda robot. Shop selling 'sea shells.' A girl wearing a fur-trimmed evening wrap over a riding costume. "Sinkers" and coffee shops with gold curtains and carved furniture. Chauffeurs scuffling to keep warm. Samuel Hoffenstein, the poet, press agent for Al Woods.

The bleak office building where the Vanderbilts mansion once stood. That fresh feel after a sudden rain. The girl who used to do those undulating dances, billed as "Princesses," now running a beauty parlor. A hotel flying Belgian flags and a dazzling green carpet laid across the sidewalk.

Signs: "Brunch"—the new combination breakfast: lunch. A girl with eloquent eyes at a tea-room window—waiting. Those sleek and impudent "kids" around theaters—producers of tomorrow. Pie counters. Dollar hats. Rhinestone dresses. Draft beer.

Gray, blinking old men with veined hands—carrying the banner. And those silver-haired Broadwayites you often discover are pool room managers or night cashiers. An ambulance backs up to an ice skating rink. "Daddy," Browning's cherry red limousine. A burlesque comic who wears black string ties and looks like an undertaker. But the popular idea of an undertaker. But the don't dress that way anymore—at least around New York. The speakeasy tip-off—curtains—windows so you can not see in from the street.

Karl Bickel. Monocle wearers from West Chester, Iowa. And spat wearers from Plattsburg, Missouri. Hale Byers, the half pint orchestra leader, who spends off hours reading the classics. Martha Wilchinski, Roy's press agent.

There is nothing quite so earnest as a vaudevilleian discussing the merits of his act. He says on the wings of superlatives. He can knock 'em stiff in their seats or lay 'em out in the aisles wherever he appears. He is invariably off stage and among strangers he is almost never so much of a shrinking violet that you never imagine he is of the stage.

This morning I met a vaudeville actor who has been opening and closing shows for years with the same mediocre routine. He rehearsed a bit of new business he was planning to inject into the act. "It means top billing for me at last," he enthused with that optimism that brings a lump in the throat.

Broadway applauds those at the top more zeal than any other place on the globe. Those who succeed have the chimerical world of dazzling lights at their feet. They reach thunderous claps on the back, headwaters, bows, comedians step out of their parts to hand them a welcoming line and all the flattery fol de rol that goes with the feeling golden hour. But new idols come and the old disappear like the mist of a Broadway dawn. One of the most historical first nights I ever attended was that of a prima donna in her most notable role. The late Victor Herbert wielded the baton. The audience was "ultra." At that star, Mary Smith—which was not her name—was a half hour receiving flowers on the footlight stage, a second-class musical show and a tenth street second-class musical show playing in a theater there. The list of principals wound up with—"And Mary Smith!"

The high cost of silk stockings no longer worry musical show producers. Hostlers, today as useless as a post-office pen. The girls go bare legged.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC" COMPLEXION

You "Can't Do a Thing With" These pimples, yellow spots and that sallowness—they come from a deeper cause than you think. Those skin blemishes are the symptom of a dangerous toxic or poisoned condition of the system which is due to a "half-dead" or sluggish liver. The liver becoming weak or congested under the strain of our abnormal living habits, fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then toxemia with stubborn skin troubles. If complexion is bad it is a sign that the liver needs a little help. There is nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall has been found to be a great natural stimulant for the liver which is a purifier of blood and skin. The genuine, pure ox gall is to be had, daily and tastefully, in the form of Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c at good druggists. To be sure of getting the genuine, look for the name Dioxol and picture of ox's head on the package.

The Story of a Girl
Who Tried to Cheat Love

BY GILBERT ROGERS

CHAPTER XIX
AFTER a moment's bewildered stare, Sally gave a short laugh of embarrassment. "Why didn't you tell me?" she asked.

"I had hopes of hearing some good news," he answered.

"You looked at him critically. He was anything she had heard or expected, and yet he wasn't. Under his heavy lids his eyes might have been mortal. He looked like somebody who had given himself up to pleasure early as if he did not know the meaning of hesitation or remorse.

"I don't know why you expected to meet me," he went on, after a pause. "I'd like to know why you didn't want to meet me."

"You couldn't hurt a man like that," she said, "but I couldn't treat him like other men. He's a gift of frankness came to her."

"Because you've got a perfectly awful reputation," she said, cheerfully.

"Lillian lifted his eyebrows in mock surprise. "But that's the very reason why women don't want to meet me," he insisted.

"Well, I'm different."

"They all are. Do you know, you're almost as pretty as you think you are."

"I don't think I'm pretty," Sally flared indignantly.

"Every woman does. If she didn't, she'd commit suicide immediately."

He looked so bored, so tired, Sally wanted to be angry, tried to be angry, but could only smile. "He's bored and amused," she thought, "but then he is amused."

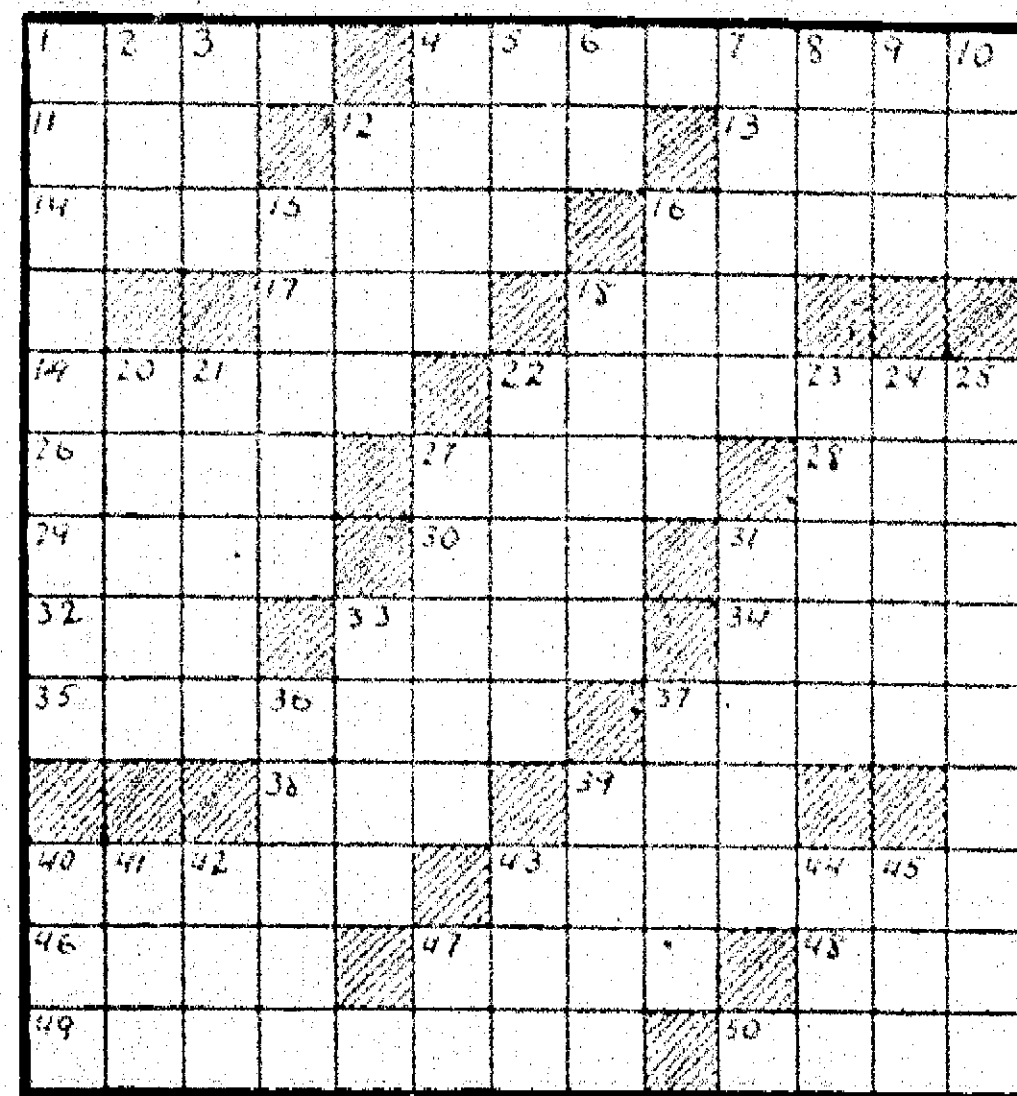

He was looking down, smiling to himself. "Living up to a bad reputation is sometimes harder than living up to a good one," he murmured. "Now I suppose, you expected I was the sort of man who'd invite you to his place, order champagne, lock the door, throw the key out of the window? ... Do you know, just for once it would give me pleasure to be as dull—as you seem to want me to be. To me a favor, break away from this place. Come home with me. Let me prove to you and myself that I can have a quiet chat with a woman without behaving like a confounded actor in a movie."

"Thanks. I can imagine it all perfectly."

"Ah, I see you believe me. You believe I would be dull and naturally you'd rather stay here."

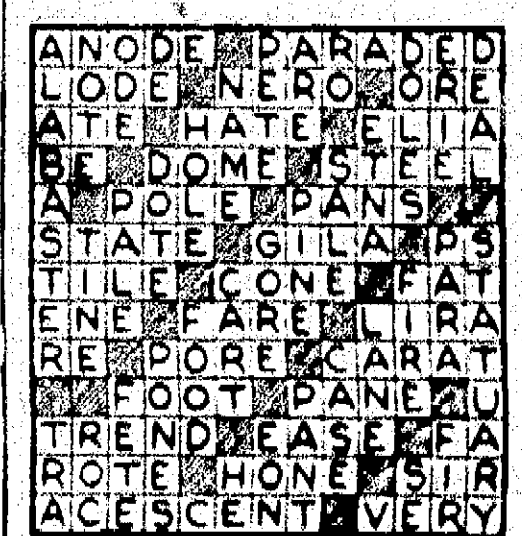

He half sauntered to the door. "Charming little talk. Miss—don't

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

Today was Friday, and when I went to let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth the world looked like it had snowed all night, and he looked like a pig and was making him walk the plank. He don't like to be let down so that his bussel warm from sleeping in the bed all night lands in a ice-cold snow-drift, and I don't blame him much. I wouldn't like it myself. But there is not anything I can do about it.

If I was to let a basket down for him to get into and be pulled up I could not hide it under the board in the attic like I can the rope, so then I couldn't let him down in it in the morning. If he had more sense than a dog he would know enough to stretch his hind legs straight down so they would be the first to touch, but he dabbles them all up. Or if he was smart he would give a quick flop when he got near the bottom and let go of the rope and land right side up.

I was going to paint the Lost Bag of Tribes one of the first time I saw him, but I didn't, and now I am going to paint him harder than ever. When the bunch was in the barn this morning he came crawling in, and before I could land on him he said, "Want a squirt gun?" and handed me a big brass one. We all looked at it. It was a thing that is used for squirting grease in to automobiles where it will do the most good, and the handle was pulled as far out as it would come. I tried to move it but couldn't. The Lost Bag of Tribes said it was empty. The others wanted to try to work the handle but I wouldn't let them. I laid it beside me whilst I finished milking and when I went in the house with it my father asked me where I got it, and I told him and he said, "It probably cost about three dollars and for me to be sure to not take any stolen property, and my mother and aunt and grandfather and uncle were standing around him by the kitchen-table looking at it, and he tried as hard as he could to work the handle and it wouldn't work. So then he turned it upside down and took hold of it with both hands and slammed the handle end down against the table, and it worked all at once and the whole handle went in, and a stream of black grease bit my father all over the face and splashed on the rest of us, so that most all of us had some on our clothes, and it was dripping from his eyebrows. I skua out for school right then without breakfast. He had made up his mind it wasn't his fault when he got home tonight. But I went to bed and pulled Jubilee up early.

"I-I don't want him to see me here!" she explained. One impulse had led to another. She slipped over to the corner, and hid. Then she wished she hadn't. She should have stayed where she was. But there were things you couldn't explain. And this joke would look like grim earnest to any else—to Jerry. She wished a thousand times over she hadn't done this thing. She was trying hard not to breathe as Jerry came into the room. To be continued

Child's Scalp Broke Out With Pimples Cuticura Healed

"My little daughter's scalp broke out with pimples. She complained of the eruptions itching and burning and they made her head ache. Her hair fell out and was lifeless and dry, and there were bald places around each pore eruption. She would cry and was very fretful, especially at night when she would lie down, and could not sleep."

"She had the trouble about three weeks when I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using it two days I could see a great change so purchased more, and in a short time she was healed."

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

A RECESS FROM WORK

A T Lillian's plait that everybody in her neighborhood acted as if he were dead and buried, there came a flash into Philip Veritzen's eye which I fancied spelled a piqued interest in her accusation. He is the type of man who cannot bear that any of his intimates shall find him tedious in either hospitality or ideas for entertainment, and I guessed that abnormally enough he felt personally responsible for Lillian's dunder.

"That is a most sweeping accusation," he said, "and one which I resent both for Mrs. Graham—"he bowed to me—"and for myself. But since you have made it, I must give you proof of its falsity. And I really have a guilty conscience. I have been so busy enjoying myself that I have not considered my friends as I should. But, my dear Lillian, consider me at your service until we shall have conquered your quest."

"Philip Veritzen, M. D., master of low stories," Lillian gazed. "But I warn you I am hard-boiled. You have no chance."

"On the contrary, I think I have your medicine right in my case," he retorted. "What you need is to have somebody 'slug a party' for you—don't that what I've heard you all it. Behold the 'somebody' before you! I'll sling you any kind of party you name, land, sea or air, day or night. Just indicate your preference and I'll provide it for as many guests as you can name."

Lillian crossed the room and, putting her hand upon either side of his face, pulled his head down and kissed his forehead with burlesque solemnity. Then across his bent head she sent me so expressive a wink and Chechire cut into a triumphant accomplishment that I almost choked in my effort to control my laughter.

"Nobody could speak fairer than that," she said, releasing him. "You always were a good egg, Phil, even if you are a twenty-minute one. And you're right. I do need a party. I've been working every day since I came down, and Mingo has been busy on your stuff. I think we all need to have Teacher say, 'Long recess!'"

Mr. Veritzen waved his hand apologetically toward her.

"Far be it from me to assume that title," he said, smiling. "But as far as it is in my power I freely grant 'recess,' as you so picturesquely put it. Mrs. Graham, please put all my work aside until I tell you I wish it resumed—all, that is—be heitated, looked at me with something very like appeal in his eyes."

"Except my work with Miss Lincoln?" I put in quietly.

His eyes flashed with gratitude. "If you could manage that," he countered but I realized that his apparent deferred request was but the mask for a demand.

"I can manage it easily," I said decidedly but he had no opportunity for more than a nod of grateful acknowledgement, for Lillian was speaking impetuously.

"Don't you give Midge too much tutoring of Miss Lincoln," she warned him. "I want her fresh for the party, for I know your affairs, Phil. They're strenuous, to put it mildly."

"You haven't indicated your preference, yet," he told her, and something in his inflection told me that the great impresario was unconsciously puzzled as to the sort of entertainment he should offer his old friend. In the critical, capricious world typified by Broadway he was at home and his nimble wit could evolve the last word in novelty and beauty. But out here in the country he had no idea what to do.

"I'm not slinging the party," Lillian retorted capriciously. "I'm simply craving amusement. Why don't you ask Midge? She's lived out here so long, she's part native, and she loves the place."

Automobile Magnates Look for 1928 Prosperity Based on Rise of Their Business

Chrysler, Sloan and Erskine See Good Business Next Year; Large Volume of Trade Expected; Fundamental Conditions of Industry Good

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor
New York, Dec. 16.—If the United States is to enjoy a larger measure of prosperity next year, an increase in automobile production and automobile service's important on business and manufacturers' profits is expected to be both an evidence and a cause of that prosperity in the United States.

happy condition. This is the testimony not only of the bankers and economists, but also of the automobile manufacturers. Three of the heads of which contribute today to International News Service's symposium on business and manufacturers' profits is expected to be both an evidence and a cause of that prosperity in the United States.

continue, said Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler Corporation. As business improves for the automobile industry, he said, business will also improve for the steel industry, the railroad industry and the building industry. The automobile industry is not only the largest of all United States manufactures based on wholesale value of product, but it is also a tremendous source of raw materials.

Looks for Good Year

"I cannot help feel that the temporary withdrawal of the Ford Motor Co. from active production had a retarding influence upon many business," said Mr. Chrysler to International News Service today. Shortage for some time has developed in a number of important industries, and this has been interpreted to mean that 1929 business will be quiet, he declared. "I look for a very good year in 1929. Some people view next year with uncertainty, because it is to be a presidential year. To me this is curious. There is no good reason why a presidential year should have any influence on business, and I for one do not believe it will have any influence during the coming year."

"I see nothing except soundness in the general economic situation," said Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, one of the world's most successful manufacturing enterprises. Continuing, he said: "This, together with the improved position of the new fiscal sections of the country, leads me to believe that 1929 will be a good year for general business. Credit is abundant and rates are low; inventories are low and, taking it all in all, I am very well satisfied with the outlook."

Mr. Sloan believes that, while the production of the automobile industry during the year has been below the level of 1928, this does not reflect any change on the part of the consumer toward the automobile as an agent of transportation, but simply reflects the fact that one of the large producers was out of production for a large part of the year. "With a year of good general business in prospect," said the head of General Motors Corporation, "I feel that the automobile industry may confidently look forward to a year of large volume, greater than any previous year. The number of cars in use grows larger each year, more cars reach the end of their useful life, and have to be replaced, so that the industry's business from the source is constantly on the increase. There is a large number of additional families each year who find that a second or third car is required to meet the transportation needs of the members of the family."

Mr. Sloan also sees the possibility of a broad expansion of American overseas trade in automobiles, for the reason that the American type of car is the most acceptable of all types in overseas trade.

A. R. Erskine, president of Studebaker Corporation, says that Studebaker is planning its operations with an expectation of great national prosperity in 1929. "Fundamental conditions in industry and agriculture in the United States and Canada are good," said Mr. Erskine. "Money and credit are abundant, and foreign countries are constantly increasing their purchases from us. Domestic and export markets are enormous, and American industry, farms and mines play the major part in supplying them. Why, then, should not this country be prosperous?"

HUNTER WEEPS WHEN HE IS FINED IN LOCAL COURT

Carl Walters, 25, of Salt Rock Township, wept as he was fined $25 and costs by Judge W. H. Martin in municipal court yesterday afternoon, on a charge of shooting a coon in the daytime.

The affidavit charging Walters with shooting the animal in the daytime was filed by Game Warden A. H. Neimeyer, and the body of the animal was presented in court as evidence of the offense. Walters, who appeared to feel worse about the shooting than the game warden, was released after he had arranged to pay the fine.

Miller, who was arrested on an affidavit filed by his wife, Mrs. Alta Miller, is being held at police headquarters pending a hearing before Municipal Judge Martin.

Something To Marvel At—Quick Relief From Rheumatic Pains

"For fifteen years I suffered so with rheumatic pains in my back, shoulders and other parts of the body that I often actually cried. I doctored and doctored here, there and almost everywhere; tried almost everything I could hear or think of. Hundreds of dollars in money and much valuable time was wasted to find relief," said Mr. Ben Zink, aged 50, one of the best known Marion building contractors and painter, residing at 405 Patterson-st. "My stomach and kidneys gave me more or less trouble, too. I had to get up frequently during the night. But, oh, my! what a wonderful relief I found, after just a few treatments with the Skodonor, which is causing so much excitement in Marion just now. I would never have believed it that such quick relief was possible from so simple a treatment. I cannot find words adequate enough to express my new-found happiness. I feel like telling everybody about it. And who shouldn't I, when I know what it has done for me? I have told many others and shall continue to do so."

"A number of my friends are also using the Skodonor for their ills and pains, as also many others I have met, and without a single exception all I have talked to say it is surely doing the work for them, too."

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

ARROGANT BEGGAR. Anzia Yezierska's new novel, just published by Doubleday, Page & Co., is both a romance of a working girl of New York tenements and an account upon organized philanthropy.

Mrs. Yezierska's new story of New York's East Side, deals with a bit of philosophy, anxiously striving to find her way from the Ghetto into a working girl's home, her struggles when thrown upon the mercy of the East Side, and finally her love of a man of her own circumstances and happiness.

The picture of the working girl, based upon the experiences of the author in a similar institution, is not from complimentary. The influence of the donors, cold, aloof, and in their charity upon the poorer class, who, in addition to their physical need, are so often, like the "Arrogant Beggar," equally needy for human kindness, and the hand inspired by brotherly love. The portrait of Adele Lindner, her escape from the tenements into an institution that denied her not only her independence but self-respect her struggle to free herself from a cold-blooded and misunderstanding charity and gain happiness among her own people is one of the most impressive Mrs. Yezierska has done.

All of Mrs. Yezierska's books deal with the less fortunate and their struggles in an unseeing, unfeeling world. Representative of her works are "Bread Givers," "Children of the Earth," and "Salome of the Tenements."

2,160 Machines Daily Pass Over Marion-Columbus-rd, Engineer's Report Reveals

Section of Federal Highway South of Here One of Busiest Thoroughfares in State; Two Other National Routes Go Through City

The section of federal highway between Marion and Columbus is one of the busiest thoroughfares in the state, according to an official report received yesterday by Grover C. Snyder, division engineer of the state highway department, which shows that traffic over this route averages 2,160 machines daily.

WEAK BACK

Johnson's

RED CROSS KIDNEY PLASTER

STRENGTHENS AND SUPPORTS

The figure appears as a part of statistics and records covering the entire state highway system and the history of its development, compiled in a survey made by state and federal officials in 1925. Since that time, traffic has registered a considerable increase but comparative percentages among the various localities is practically the same as two years ago, highway officials state.

Two Other Routes

Two federal routes pass through Marion, the other being the one made up of sections of the Harding and Lincoln highways. Traffic over the entire length of this route, the survey shows, averaged 1,071 vehicles per day. The state was divided into five traffic sections in making the survey. The one found to be by far the most important is designated as the north-eastern section with Cuyahoga County as the pivot point. The northwestern section, of which Marion County is a part, ranks fourth in volume of traffic.

Six copies of the book containing a report of the survey were received by Snyder. It is illustrated with numerous maps and photographs. History of the state highway development dates back to 1810, a road map of the state showing the meager skeleton of thoroughfares established at that time being an interesting illustration of the volume.

Uncharted Area

According to the map, Marion's location was then in an uncharted area known as the Connecticut Western Reserve, no roads being shown north of a line located a short distance from the village of Norton, then situated in Franklin County.

The map provides a striking comparison with others of recent date appearing in the same volume, showing the state's present highway system, recognized as one of the best and most complete in the country.

ABANDON ERECTION OF OVERHEAD BRIDGE

Erie Railroad and City Officials Agree To Discontinue Project

Erection of an overhead bridge at the Erie crossing on Clinton-st., a compromise made between the city and Erie railroad, seven years ago, was the purpose of a meeting of Erie officials and city officials, called by the former and held in city hall yesterday afternoon.

Option on the land on both sides of the track, which was taken by the city seven years ago, expire in June and the meeting, it was explained by the Erie men, was called for the purpose of learning what action, if any, the city would take in the matter.

The city's attitude in the matter was expressed briefly by officials when it developed at the hearing that the city's portion of the cost would be approximately $25,000. Its stand created no discussion however, as the Erie is no more anxious to build the bridge, than is the city, the city was assured by railroad officials.

The building of the overhead crossing, providing the conditions warranted it, was a part of the agreement made by the city seven years ago when in an effort to convert Clinton-st. with Oak-lander by a crossing, the city brought condemnation proceedings against the railroad company. The case was heard in common pleas court but was settled before being decided, when the Erie agreed to a temporary crossing on condition that the city pay half of the cost of building an overhead bridge, within five years, if the traffic justified it.

While Clinton-st. has built up considerably in the seven years, the building has been south of the tracks and there is practically no traffic over the crossing.

HEALTH CAMP MAY BE ABANDONED HERE

Kiwanis Club Approves Suggestion That Project Be Dropped in 1928

If the under-privileged children of the city are to have the benefits of a fresh air camp next summer, funds may be forthcoming from some source other than the Kiwanis Club. Financed in the main by the members of the club each year since started, the cost has mounted until last year more than $2,400 was spent. Of this amount nearly $900 remains unpaid and the park is holding a note for this amount against the club. George Whysall told members of the club at the luncheon at Hotel Harding yesterday.

"I am for the children and sincerely hope that some means will be devised that will make it possible for a camp to be opened next year," Mr. Whysall said, "but in view of the fact that the club owes $900 of the $2,400 spent this summer, I feel we should forgo the camp next summer and use what money we have to pay off the note."

The opinion expressed by Mr. Whysall was endorsed by other members of the club who said that although they favored the camp, they did not think it was good business to continue to spend money for a camp next summer when there already was a debt of $900 from this summer's camp.

Blow to Kiddies

That the closing of the camp will be a serious blow to the many children of the city who need just the treatment provided by the camp, is the common opinion of those who have been familiar with the work.

Twenty-eight children, thin, under-nourished youngsters, went to the camp in June as guests of the club and returned in September, stronger and healthier in every way. This is presented as startling proof of the important part the camp has played in the health of the under-privileged child.

Benefit derived from the camp is not temporary, physicians and school teachers say. The children who attend the camp are getting along better with their school work.

No definite action with reference to abandoning the camp was taken by the club yesterday, it being recommended by President Stengel that the members consider the matter until the next meeting of the club which will be held Dec. 20 when it is expected some definite action will be taken.

FIGHT IS LAUNCHED FOR POSTAL MEASURE

Bill for Public Buildings May Be Up for House Vote Today

Washington, Dec. 10.—A fight for a $10,000,000 House Public Buildings bill to meet the demands of hundreds of smaller cities in the country for postal buildings was launched in the House today by Rep. Jeff Bush, Democrat of Mississippi.

Under the present policy of Congress the administration, he asserted, states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Massachusetts—will get more than half the public buildings constructed in the next 10 years. Bush's effort was started in submitting a minority report to that of the House Committee on Public Buildings, recommending passage of the Reed bill increasing the present fund for buildings $10,000,000 a year for 10 years. The steering committee of the House has decided to allow this bill to be brought up for a vote on Monday, with quick passage expected.

"The country needs a bill which will provide $50,000,000 every year for public buildings outside of the District of Columbia," said Bush.

Plays much.

Likes books.

Sloan, Age 53.
Six feet tall.

Eats anything.
Has no hobbies.
Never reads.
Too busy for friends.
Never drinks.
Doesn't smoke.

College man.

"A" SLOAN vs. "KID" FORD
Let 'er go boys!

For it's the silver king against General Motors there's two billion dollars thrown into the ring, and the fight promises to be a sizzler from the first wallop to the last.

It started "way back in the days when G. M. walked into the low-priced-car field. Everybody laughed. But Sloan put it over. In three years he jumped his business 450 per cent—from $300,000,000 in 1921 to one odd billion dollars this year.

Then — naturally — everybody figured Ford was through. But his sensational re-entry into the field, his superb showmanship in getting people interested in his new creation, prove that Henry still carries the business punch.

Watch this duel—it's going to be a hummer!

wish Congregation Here an to Observe Chanukah

Members of the Jewish congregation here will observe Chanukah, the Feast of the Maccabees, with the regular ritualistic services at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night in the rooms, E. Center-st in charge of the services will be Rabbi Strelitz. The holiday is of great significance and the modern observance in this mid-western city is one of the most momentous periods and victories in his history.

The celebration of this feast, which has no elaborate ritual in the synagogue or in the home, has become a special children's feast and in the larger congregations the eight-day festival is celebrated with dramatic, musical and edible treats. In this way the children are inspired with the moral and religious responsibility to continue the tradition and practice of kindling the eight lights in their homes.

Story of Feast

The story of the feast celebrates the victory of the three years' war which began in the year 168 B. C. between the spiritual forces of Hellenism and Judaism. The Greek civilization followed Alexander's conquering army into the Orient. A division of his great empire upon his death, among his generals, brought Judea after a few decades, under the domination of Antiochus, King of Syria. Driven by the frenzied idea that political unity was dependent upon one religion and one language in his dominions, the mad king proceeded to force Greek customs, gods, speech and worship upon Judea.

The king failed to count upon the valor and resistance of the Jews. The gauntlet was thrown down. The issue was drawn. The Jews rushed to arms. It was a fight for existence. It was a fight for freedom to worship God. It was a fight of Jews against the forces of the sensual ideal of beauty against prophetic righteousness; of polytheism against monotheism. The spiritual destiny of the world was hanging in the balance. The Jew was fighting the battle for humanity.

After three years of desperate fighting the heroic Maccabees and their intrepid leader, Judas, led their victorious army into Jerusalem. Independence was practically gained; heathen altars were thrown down, the walls and fortresses were rebuilt, and the Temple rededicated amid song and illumination to the worship of the One and Only God. The twenty-fifth day of Kislev was set aside for the annual Feast of Lights, and the yearly renewal of devotion to God and of loyalty to the cause of Jewish freedom.

The quaint legend that Judas Maccabeus found but a few drops of sacred oil with which to light the candelabra and that it miraculously burned eight days, conveys the thrilling and inspiring message of the conquering power of the consecrated few who are armed with justice, enthusiasm and valor. Israel in history is the tiny cruse of sacred oil.

PLAYS PRESENTED BY JUNIOR CLASS

Second Performance at Central Junior High Auditorium Successful

Second presentation of the three-act play by the junior class of Harding High School was quite as successful as the first appearance Wednesday night.

In the cast of "The Romance of the Willow Pattern" two changes were made. Miss Katherine Zachman taking the part of "Kong See" and Fred Merchant that of "Chang" in place of Miss Jane Smith and John Artopous. Miss Jane Guthrie and Miss Margaret Forre played outstanding roles in "Joint Owners in Spain," a character study of two eccentric funnies of an Old Ladies' Home. They were supported by Miss Dorothy Mackan and Miss Jane Bradley in minor roles. "The Grill," the third play, was a one-act mystery. Miss Lucille Foreman, high school dramatic instructor, directed the presentation.

YOUTH HELD HERE

Bernard Kinsler, 17, Accused of Stealing Overcoat

Bernard Kinsler, 17, of 224 Short-st., is being held by police pending a hearing before Judge L. H. McNeal on a petit larceny charge. Kinsler, who is a student at Harding High School, was arrested yesterday afternoon after, according to the police, he had stolen an overcoat from the school building.

After taking the coat, the police say, Kinsler took it to a local store where he attempted to trade it for a smaller size. The merchant, becoming suspicious, notified the police and Kinsler was placed under arrest. He later admitted taking the coat, police say.

COMMITTS TWO MEN TO STATE INSTITUTION

Mysterious Pair Adjudged Insane in Hearing Before Probate Judge McNeal

With their actual identities and places of residence still shrouded in mystery, two young men placed in the custody of Sheriff James A. Deal have been adjudged insane and were taken to the state hospital at Columbus today for treatment.

They are registered as Bill Willie and John Johnson and their ages are estimated at 22 years. Willie is a negro and Johnson is white.

The sheriff said that because of obvious mental derangement of the two men it is impossible to ascertain whether these are their real names. He filed lunacy affidavits against them yesterday and Probate Judge McNeal committed them to the state hospital in the belief that after receiving treatment there for a few weeks their minds may be cleared and their identity made known.

Johnson, who was taken in charge by local police during the recent spell of near-zero weather and whose feet were badly frozen from exposure, said that he was formerly an inmate of a state hospital at Toledo. Investigation showed that there is no record of his having been in that city.

Willie was taken to the county jail, Wednesday night, after he had wandered from house to house south of the city for several hours applying for lodging.

The holidays are busy days for BIG FOUR men

While you are at home enjoying your Christmas dinner, thousands of BIG FOUR men will be at their posts of duty—on the trains, in the yards and signal towers, and out along the right of way, doing their part in keeping the trains moving on schedule.

Railroad service never stops. For many men in the operating forces the Christmas holidays bring more responsibility and longer hours, because of the increase in travel, as well as the heavy movement of goods.

Christmas home-comings and Christmas gifts depend on the regularity of railroad service and the loyal and unselfish team work of a great army of railroad men.

TEAM PREPARES FOR ST. MARY'S HIGH GAME

Coach Kingsmore Irons Out Wrinkles in Marysville Cage Outfit

Marysville, Dec. 10.—The Marysville High school basketball outfit will play its first home game of the season at the armory tonight, with St. Mary's High school, opponents. The team for the night is high following the 45 to 20 defeat handed to Kenton High school last Friday night.

Coach Kingsmore has devoted the entire week to brushing over some of the rough spots in team work, which showed up last Friday night.

The probable starting lineup for Friday night will be Wilcox and Hume as forwards, Mahan at center, and Simpson and Mills at guard. If the visitors are unable to run up a large score, the team and stragglers will get the best work-out of the season.

There was little opportunity to work in second class material at the Kenton game as it was all the first team could do to maintain a lead. As an added attraction for the game, the Marysville high school orchestra will play by intermission.

Following the downfall of Kenton under the terrific onslaught of the locals last Friday night, cancellation of games by intended opponents has again been started. Mr. Gilead, who also cancelled a scheduled football last fall, has cancelled basketball game to be played by them. A game scheduled with Plain City for Dec. 23 has been cancelled by Marysville, in order that its team members can attend the annual high school Christmas party in the local armory. Plain City, however, will play here on Jan. 26. An effort is being made to schedule Hyattsville, champion of Delaware County, in January for the open date of Jan. 6.

Size of "Little Sheikh," Famous Hound, Plays Major Part in Damage Case

Kenton, Dec. 10.—"Little Sheikh," a coon dog of North American compounds owned by E. B. Baker, Norwalk, may be presented by the defense as evidence in the Harkin County court of common pleas, when the $20,000 damage case filed by C. C. "Doc" Brindley, Warren, against H. J. Proffitt, Kenton, is brought to trial Jan. 16.

The defendants were promoters of the National Lady's Club, who had held trials won by "Little Sheikh," a coon dog owned by the plaintiff, Brindley, charged that the winning dog was an undeveloped, underbred, runt of a hound.

In suing the promoters, Brindley alleged in his petition that Proffitt and Lingo "conspired to keep the Beauty entries from winning in the grand final."

Hearing of the damage suit was originally set down for Dec. 8 but was postponed by Judge Hamilton E. Hoge of the Harkin County court of common pleas to Dec. 11 upon request of the plaintiff. A second motion for an adjournment of the case was denied by the judge. The day preceding the trial, the defendant presented an affidavit to the effect that he could not be present because of ill health, preventing his traveling and the case was again continued to Jan. 16.

UNIFORM RANK WILL GO TO MEETING AT MEEKER

Members of Marion Company No. 15, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will accompany a delegation from Canby Lodge, No. 51 to Meeker tonight, when the rank of page will be conferred on a class of candidates by the Canby degree team. Plans for the visit were made at the weekly meeting of the Uniform Rank held last night.

SAYS SCIENCE WILL BANISH RADIO HOWL

Caldwell Sees Eventual Smooth Operation of Hundreds of Stations

Washington, Dec. 16.—Scientific achievement will banish heterodyne shrieks and howls from the radio broadcast band and eventually permit the smooth operation of hundreds of broadcasting stations without interference.

This forecast was made today by O. H. Caldwell, acting head of the Federal Radio Commission, who declared that for 1928 many interesting possibilities present themselves.

"One of the solutions of the chaos problem will come through single side-band transmission, reducing by half the necessary 10 kilocycle separation of stations and permitting effective operation of practically twice as many stations," Caldwell said.

"To explain: the wave which carries music from a broadcasting station vibrates like a tuning fork approximately 4,000 cycles on each side of the zero of the frequency—it takes up a channel space of 8,000 cycles. When the channels overlap there is interference. "Single side-band transmission means a reduction of the vibration by half, or vibration on but one side of the zero of the frequency."

Caldwell said that progress in the study of practical use of this form of transmission brings the possibility of its use by broadcasting stations next year.

Only Two Red, Black Starters Sure

Coach Compton Names Probable Lineup for Harding, Central Game

Arrett, McAninch, Both Lettermen, To Start at Forward and Guard Respectively; Evans or Cline, Gillis or Partridge, Lewis or Cram To Get Call at Other Positions

Only two Harding High School basketball letter men are reason-able of starting in the game to-against Columbus Central at the gymnasium, according to the an-nouncement of the probable starting lineup by Coach "Baldy" Compton, this morning.

The two, who, according to the announcement, stand the best chance of getting in for the first tip-off are Arrett, left forward, and McAninch, left guard. Two other letter men are paired with other players in the probable starters. At the right forward position will be Gillis or Partridge, Evans or Cline, and Lewis or Cram. The game will start at 7:15 o'clock and the main game will start an hour later. The starters at the back guard will be either Lewis or Cram, according to Compton.

The game tonight will be the first this season for the Red and Black starters. The Columbus team isn't reported to be exceptionally fast this year but the locals are also an unknown quantity. Playing good basketball just in spots last year the team pulled together later and gave a creditable showing in the high school tournament staged by Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware last March.

The preliminary to the Harding-Central game will be played by the teams representing the junior and senior classes at Harding High School. This game will start at 7:15 o'clock and the main game will start an hour later. The starters at the back guard will be either Lewis or Cram, according to Compton.

Church League Teams Play Second Games

The Epworth Methodist, the Trinity Baptist, and the Central Christian church league basketball teams turned in decisive victories in the senior division games played at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The Epworth team topped the Agosta Methodists, 21 to 12. The game was rough and Biddle and Kale were taken out for rough playing. The Agosta outfit scored six points in the first quarter and only two in each succeeding frame. The winners led the entire distance.

In honoring the Astory team, 22 to 11, Merchant and Yazel of the Baptist outfit led the scoring with 10 and nine points respectively. The game was better than the score indicates as Astory missed a lot of shots. Bush especially was unable to locate the basket and was held to three points.

Only five points difference separated the score in the Central Christian-United Brethren game with the former out in front of a 20 to 15 score. This was another game that was a little rough. Geissler went out with four personal fouls just before the whistle blew. Yazel collected nine points for the winners and was high point scorer for the game. The game was close throughout. At the half the United Brethren had a one-point lead and at the end of the third quarter was behind with the score at 14 to 13.

In the only interdivision league game played on the "Y" floor the Central Christian triumphed the First Presbyterian, 18 to 11. The Central Christian team led the entire way.

In the other intermediate division game scheduled for the "Y" the Greenwood team won from the Trinity Baptist outfit, 20 on a forfeit.

The Calvary Evangelical church dropped its game to the Waldo church team at Waldo 30 to 20. This was a senior league game. Fox of the Calvary team suffered a badly injured leg in the first half.

Tia Juana Horses Prepare for $100,000 Handicap Race

Tia Juana, Mexico, Dec. 16—Weights assigned to the 100 horses nominated for the $100,000 Colfirth handicap to be run on Sunday, March 18, were announced here today by Secretary George W. Schilling.

The honor of packing top weight of 127 pounds was placed jointly on Displey and Grey Lag. The former, a four-year-old son of Fair Play, is owned by Walter J. Salmon, the New York realtor-sportsman, while Grey Lag, nine-year-old chestnut horse by Star Shoot is owned by R. Wilson, New York breeder and racing man.

WESTERN GRID TEAMS AGAIN DON MOLESKINS

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 16—The Bears of California were back to the grind of training today, preparing for their game against Pennsylvania here on Dec. 31.

THE JUDGE WILL HATE THIS, TOO

New York, Dec. 16—The income of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis will be cut next year by the action of the joint committee of the Major leagues in voting to reduce the share of the office of the baseball commissioner in the world series from 15 per cent out of the gross receipts to 10 per cent. Out of the 10 per cent, the salary of Commissioner Landis and all expenses connected with his office must be paid.

In making the reduction, it was pointed out that the greater receipt due to larger parks and higher prices made the lesser amount sufficient for carrying on the work accomplished by Commissioner Landis.

Smoke-nickels are worth more than ever!

TODAY a nickel is good for more smoking pleasure than ever before. Yes, sir! For that's all it costs to light up and enjoy a fresh, mellow Havana Ribbon cigar!

You may think a 5c cigar simply can't be good—so many of them are always claiming to be "worth really more." But here's one that's different. Havana Ribbon actually sold for more for years! Sold big! And those same volume sales are just the reason it can be a nickel today.

Havana Ribbon is a real cigar, man. As mellow-as-can-be. Full-bodied, fragrant and friendly! Just from smoking it, you'd never guess it could be bought for so little. Try it. At the nearest cigar store. You'll vote that 5c piece the greatest smoke-nickel you ever spent!

BRITISH NOISE COST

$5,000,000 A WEEK

But It Costs United States
Twice as Much, Estimates Reveal

London, Dec. 16.—Noise costs Great Britain the astonishing sum of five million dollars a week. A sum approximately as high as that paid out for the upkeep of the British Navy for the same period of time.

It is estimated that noise costs the United States nearly double this sum, or $20,000,000 a year as the 'Yankees' are supposed to make nearly twice as much racket as do the British.

Pointing out what an extreme measure to health the roar of civilization has become, Professor Spooner, an authority on industrial fatigue, discussing the situation recently said:

"It is a fallacy to think that people become so accustomed to noise that they no longer notice it, it is harmless to the ear, and noise, whether heard or not, is the most inveterate thief of health. Up to the present little has been done to combat this new menace, but efforts are being made to induce the medical organization of the League of Nations to take up the question in the cause of humanity."

The Thermometer is the Holsum Baker's Compass

WHAT the compass is to the navigator the thermometer is to the baker. The magnetic needle lessens the hazards of sailing. The thin line of quick-silver takes the guesswork out of baking.

Housewives and Holsum bakers both realize the importance of temperature in baking bread. Bread in the making must be neither too warm nor too cold. Oven temperatures also must be regulated with greatest accuracy.

Throughout the skillful Holsum mixing processes, thermometers of a special type keep constant guard over this good bread. And while tiled ovens impart to Holsum Bread its golden glow, thermometers of another type keep accurate check on baking temperature.

Holsum Bread is scienceblended and science-baked.
It comes to you with all its goodness...all its oven-fresh-

BATTERED TAX BILL IS SENT TO SENATE
Carries Estimated Reduction of $289,735,000; Exceeds Coolidge Limit

Washington, Dec. 16—A badly battered tax reduction bill was sent to the Senate today, following passage by the House under the virtual dictation of Democratic leaders.

Carrying an estimated total reduction of $289,735,000, the bill far exceeds the limit of reduction set by President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. They declared the treasury could not stand a cut greater than $225,000,000.

Further changes are expected to be made in the Senate, where a hard drive will be waged for repeal of the federal inheritance tax. This would cut about $30,000,000 more from the nation's revenues.

Although Republican leaders of the House were dissatisfied with the bill, they refused to support a movement to send it back to a committee and house to retrieve their losses in the Senate and in conference committees.

President Coolidge, it was declared by congressmen who have talked with him, has threatened to veto the measure as a menace to sound finance of the country.

As passed by the House the bill provides:

Corporation and life insurance income tax rate cut from 13 1/2 to 11 1/2 per cent, with sliding scale for corporations with incomes under $10,000 annually and exemption of $10,000 for corporations with annual income of $25,000 or under. The sliding scale is: Five per cent on incomes up to $7,000; seven per cent, $7,000 to $12,000; nine per cent, $12,000 to $15,000.

Repeals of automobile purchase tax, cereal beverage tax and stamp taxes on sales of produce on exchanges; cuts in half the tax on transfers of capital stock and club dues; cuts wine tax to pre-war rate and exempts income from banks' acceptances of foreign issue banks.

TAG SALE SLOW
Secretary of State Brown Receives Reports on Buying

Columbus, Dec. 16—That the sale of next year's auto license tags throughout the state is "slow" is indicated in reports received by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown. The state auto registration bureau, in charge of the distribution of these tags, is a division of the secretary of state's department.

Brown said he was unable to understand why autoists throughout Ohio are so tardy in obtaining their 1935 license tags. He pointed out that all autoists "have been admonished time and time again that there will, positively, be no extension beyond Dec. 31 of the opportunity for procuring licenses."

Christmas Programs of Varied Nature Being Planned For Presentation by Students in Marion City Schools

To Be Given Before Close of Vacation Next Wednesday

Christmas programs of a varied nature are being planned by city school teachers for the various schools before dismissal for Christmas vacation next Wednesday. Elaborate programs of plays, recitations, carol singing, Christmas parties with trees, Santa Claus and treats are being planned in a number of the schools while in still others combined Christmas parties and programs are being arranged for each of the different rooms.

In order that a larger number of students may participate Christmas programs will be presented in first period in the morning classes Wednesday at Harding, each teacher having charge of the program of her particular group.

A Christmas sketch will be presented

Wednesday afternoon by pupils of Vernon Heights Junior High School at the school. Misses Una Aekley and Irene Epler are directing the presentation, which parents are invited to attend.

St. Mary's Program
"A Fairy Conspiracy" was the title of the Christmas play which featured a special holiday program presented this afternoon at St. Mary's Parochial school. There will be choruses by the older students and selections by the school orchestra. The same program will be given Saturday afternoon at the school for parents and school will dismissed for Christmas vacation Dec. 23.

A play, "Grandma's Christmas Gift" will be presented by sixth grade students in chapel an assembly of all students of the school Wednesday morning at Central Junior High School.

Directing Play
Miss Jessie Henderson, a teacher, is directing a Christmas play, "Christmas at Elmington's Place" to be presented by pupils of the seventh grade before parents of pupils of the school Monday night at Oakwood Heights Building. There will also be Christmas carols sung by the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, directed by Miss Dorothy Briggs and a physical education demonstration in charge of Miss Isabel Coughlin. Wednesday morning in a student assembly, pupils of all rooms will take part in a miscellaneous program and in the afternoon Christmas parties with Christmas trees and exchange of gifts will be enjoyed in the various rooms.

A miscellaneous Christmas program will be presented for the benefit of parents of the pupils Wednesday night at Pearl Street School. The children will enjoy a similar program in the afternoon.

Separate Programs
Each grade will have a separate Christmas program at the Olney Avenue School on Wednesday. Christmas carols will be sung, Christmas recitations given and a "Santa Claus" will be in attendance to listen the entertainment. Each room expects to have a Christmas tree.

"The Christmas Spirit" from Dickens' "Christmas Carol" will be presented by children of the two seventh grades Wednesday afternoon at the State Street School and Christmas parties will be held in the various grades. At a Community Club meeting on Thursday night all grades will be represented in a Christmas program.

The Christmas observance at the Silver Street School will center around several Christmas trees and will include programs in each of the various grades on Wednesday.

Youngsters at Greenwood Street School will take part in an assembly program of recitations and Christmas carols around a Christmas tree Wednesday before the close of school and the second grade taught by Miss Grace Wingett and the Third, taught by Miss Marie Hammer will have special programs.

Parents are invited to a miscellaneous Christmas program to be given by the students in assembly Wednesday afternoon at the David Street School. Teachers will furnish a treat for the children. There will also be a hall program to which parents are invited the same afternoon at Greenwood School, with separate programs of plays and recitations in each grade.

Christmas Trees
Christmas trees presented by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Malt, whose two children are students in the school, will feature the Christmas festivities at Mark Street School Wednesday afternoon. One Christmas tree will be placed in each grade school room, where individual programs will be presented and Christmas exchanges enjoyed. There will be a treat from the Community Club and another furnished by the teachers.

A short program of recitations and songs will be given Wednesday afternoon at the N. Main Street School. At Oak Street School students of the grammar grades will give a playlet "Benjamin the Shepherd's Song" in the afternoon and Christmas parties will be enjoyed

Elaborate Schedule of Events Arranged in Different Rooms

In each of the grades following, Christmas parties will also be held in every grade at the Lincoln Building on the day before vacation begins. Interest will center about a "Santa Claus" and Christmas tree.

BOOTLEGGING NO GROUND FOR DIVORCE IN OHIO

Cleveland, Dec. 16—Bootlegging is no ground for divorce. That at least is the opinion voiced by Common Pleas Judge Thomas Kennedy, who ruled in a recent Cleveland divorce case that testimony showing that an erring hubby was a bootlegger was not even worth the trouble the lawyers took to bring out such a fact.

Kennedy said there is nothing in the Ohio law that permits a wife to leave her husband because he starts to sell rum.

"A bootlegger and his wife can start out together on a modest scale, make beer together, make money together and ride around in big cars together. There is nothing in the bootlegging end of it to keep them apart," he said.

"Numerous lawyers, however, seek to advise the court in favor of the wives seeking divorce by branding husbands as bootleggers in divorce petitions of more or less consequence." This he held was

TAKE SALTS FOR A KIDNEY BACKACHE

Drink Lots of Water All Day Long to Keep Kidneys Flushed

Too much rich food forms acids which irritate and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking Jada. Also get about four ounces of Jada Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the seed of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jada Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day.—Adv.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT AGAINST ASSESSMENT

Maude and James F. Bell Declare Improvement Levies
Are Excessive

Bell asking for an injunction against collection of street improvement assessments levied against a property at the corner of Herndon and Lincoln was brought in the court of common pleas this morning by Maude Bell and James F. Bell. They name County Treasurer J. E. McGehee, and the city of Marion as defendants.

Assessments levied against the property, the petition states, amount to $1,501.17. It is asserted that $996.67 is all that can be legally collected under provisions of the law which limit the total assessments against any property to a third of its value. The Bell property, the petition states, was not worth more than $2,999 at the time the levies were made.

A report filed with the city council has been rejected, the plaintiffs state. The assessments objected to are: Unimproved paving, $1,000.00; Herndon sewer, $11.40; Herndon sidewalk, $48.61.

The court is asked to issue an order cancelling all of the total amount in excess of $996.67. The suit was filed
